

2015 International Conference on Women in Development

November 11-12, 2015
Institute of Business Management

Never underestimate the power of a woman because someone who after God has the capability to bring a life on Earth definitely has the strength to change destiny. Delicate and compassionate, a woman surely is, but that should never be mistaken as weakness or incapability. Women all around the world are playing their part not only in the nurturing of nations but also as the work force needed to uplift the economic position of a country. We must be grateful to them for their sincerity and commitment. Pakistani women have certainly walked out of typical framework of life and excelled in many fields like journalism, philanthropy, IT, engineering, politics etc.

The Institute of Business Management (IoBM) is proud to announce the 2015 International Conference on Women in Development (ICWiD) to be held from November 11-12, 2015. We cordially invite you to participate in this premier event. Conference participants will be discussing women's role in contemporary development phase and their empowerment in the labor market and access to financial resources. Examples of best practice from South Asia will be analyzed taking into account the degree of women's involvement in business since this contributes to sustainable development of environment, economy and society.
